As this syllabus has been introduced for the first time, effort has been made to do justice with the content. However, if anything has been skipped or overlooked, the suggestions and reviews from the reader will be of immense help to me in updating the next edition. I would like to thank my family for the support, content contribution and the editing help, they have provided. My husband Mr. Anurag Mathur stood as a rock of Gibraltar, throughout the writing process and my daughter Anubha – an MBA from IIT-Roorkee, showed managerial abilities in helping me organise the entire task effortlessly. My son-in law CA Nitin Mathur contributed live examples from the industry. Not to say the least, the new edition to our family, my granddaughter baby Anvita has been a soothing factor and stress buster during the much stressful exercise of writing the book. I would take this opportunity to thank my brother & sisters, nieces & nephews and friends for their support. My publishers 'Taxmann' also deserve profuse thanks in lending help, support and timely completion of the project.

In the end, I would fail in my duty if I do not acknowledge the role of my Gurus, Prof. N.K. Chadha, Prof. Y.P. Singh & Prof. K.V. Bhanumurthy.

I am eternally grateful to LORD KRISHNA for bestowing HIS blessings for writing the book & thankful to my spiritual Guru Shri Sant Raj Aradheya for his heavenly blessings.

I assure, the readers that they will be benefited with the content of the book, as I have been able to use my professional and academic experience in writing the book. Being a CHARTERED ACCOUNTANT by profession, I have about 14 years of managerial experience in the industry and about 22 years of teaching experience. With over 36 years of combined experience of industry and academics, I have seen industry from close quarters and used the practical experience in making teaching more meaningful. I am positive that the students will have plenty to gain from the book.
